MRS. J. W. BARNES BE HERE TO-DAY

She is International Sunday School Primary Secretary.

Richmond delights to welcome and honor such international leaders as Mrs. J. W. Barnes, International Sunday school primary secretary, whose visit this week is a cause of rejoicing to the Sunday school workers. She is expected to-day, and will be the guest of Rev. Dr. Eggleston, on Church Hill.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock she will meet the primary teachers of all the churches in the city at the Y. M. C. A. building, to confer with them and to organize a city primary union.

She will remain here till Saturday, and will speak at the Sunday School institute in the Third Presbyterian Church, corner Broad and Twenty-sixth Streets, on Friday at 2 P. M.

RAILROAD NEWS.

President George W. Stevens states that no decision has yet been reached in the matter of the contemplated removal of the general offices of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway from this city, to Clifton Forge, or some other point. Nothing has yet been determined in the matter, and it will probably be some weeks before anything is done. Mr. Stevens left last night for a business trip North for a day or two. He will upon his return go to the West before the Christmas holidays. That being the case, no decision in the removal matter is expected before the beginning of the new year.

The Richmond Railroad Club will hold its regular monthly meeting at Murphy's Hotel Annex on the evening of December 10th at 8 o'clock. A paper on "Practical Suggestions on Transfer and Consolidation of Freight," by Mr. Edwin H. Lea, agent of the Southern Railway in this city, will be read, and discussed. Other matters may come up for discussion at this meeting.

The organization is in a prosperous condition, and its discussions are usually on live topics of interest to practical railway men.

Messrs. O. M. Brown, traveling agent of the Chesapeake and Northwestern, and Mr. J. A. Hall, traveling agent of the Union Pacific, two of the most capable men in their lines in the country, are in the city on business for their roads. They are at the Jefferson and yesterday visited the offices of the Norfolk and Western and Coast Line. The literature distributed by them, illustrating the standard of train service and the scenic beauty of the country traversed, is about the handsomest seen here.

All the railways hereabout are getting out their posters, announcing holiday rates. The fare generally is at the rate of one and a third the regular fare for the round trip. The posters gotten out, announcing these rates, are very handsome, notably those of the Atlantic Coast Line and Southern, being printed in many colors, and with Santa Claus illustrations.

Mr. R. H. Bowers, city passenger agent of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, is still away on a vacation in King William county, where he is gunning for game of various kinds. He will be back and resume work next week.

The Seaboard Air Line is preparing for the inauguration of its magnificent Florida service, which is unexcelled by any road North or South. The special through flyers will be put on early in the new year. Mr. H. S. Leard went to Fredericksburg yesterday on business for the Seaboard.

The Norfolk and Western Railway is offering a round trip rate to Lynchburg of 65c, and to Norfolk of 75c, tickets on sale beginning December 23rd and limited to return January 4th. The road is anticipating a heavy holiday business.

The Southern Classification Committee, which has been sitting in Washington for several days, discussed nearly a hundred items. It is reliably stated that in many cases the ratings were reduced. Only three changes were made, which are in the nature of an advance, one of these being on locomotives.

The statement of the approximate earnings of the Seaboard Air Line Railway for the fourth week in November with comparison follows: Week ending November 30th, $29,672; same week last year, $26,570; increase for week this year, $3,102. For the four weeks ended November 30th, $1,087,027; for same period of last year, $1,024,222; increase for the month this year, $62,805. Earnings from July 1st to November 30th, $5,991,287; for

FIREMEN'S BILL FAILS

The Senate Debates the Measure and Refuses to Reconsider Vote.

PUNISHMENT OF VAGRANCY

Bill Offered Framed After the Georgia Law—The Jordan Oyster Bill Reported.

Both houses of the General Assembly put in a good day's work yesterday, sitting for two and a half hours. The Senate finally disposed of the bill for the relief of sick and disabled volunteer firemen, refusing to pass the measure, and then refusing to reconsider.

A spirited debate on the bill recently amended by Mr. Sipe, to prevent building and loan associations charging a higher rate of interest than eight per cent, was precipitated, in which Mr. Sipe and Mr. Whithead were participants, but the bill went over without action.

The House refused to pass the bill to increase the salary of Auditor Marye, the measure lacking two votes of the number requisite to pass.

Among the bills offered in the two houses was one by Senator Halsey, to prevent and punish vagrancy, and one by Delegate West to establish another normal and industrial school for women, and to locate the same north of James River. Both bills were referred.

The Senate Committee for Fish and Game reported the Jordan bill to break the Bayliner geodetic survey with an adverse recommendation, but no action whatever on the report was had.

The House broke all records of the session, passing fifty or sixty of the Senate revision bills.

The Senate.

The session of the Senate yesterday was called to order by Lieutenant-Governor Willard, with thirty-two senators present. Rev. Preston A. Cave offered the opening prayer.

A communication from the House announced the passage of House bills 340, 350 and 562, and they were referred to the Committee for Courts of Justice.

Mr. Halsey offered a bill to prevent vagrancy, and it was referred to the Committee for Courts of Justice. The bill is modeled on the Georgia vagrancy act.

Mr. Wickham, from the Committee on Finance and Banks, reported Senate bills 531 and 532, No. 531, providing for collecting the arrearages of taxes on the shares of stock of national banks, was taken up at its order and passed.

The chair was vacated while the Lieutenant-Governor signed a number of House and Senate bills.

Mr. Lytle, of Roanoke, called for the special order, the House bill for the relief of sick and disabled firemen, which had been made a special order for 11 A. M. The bill, which was offered by Delegate Charles H. Ryan, of Portsmouth, and has been on the Senate calendar for months.

Mr. Lytle, of Roanoke, opened the debate for the measure in a speech in which he related the great service done by the communities of the State by the volunteer firemen. He recounted the hardships and dangers of the firemen's life, and improved the fact that these men risked life and health without remuneration. Large sums in taxable values from which the State derived revenue were annually saved through the unremunerated services of these men. Mr. Lytle made an earnest plea to the Senate to pass the bill.

Mr. Wickham, chairman of the Committee on Finance and Banks, took the floor in opposition to the measure. He made the point that the bill was in the nature of paternalism, and the establishment of a pension system. This policy began to one could not be maintained by the Senate to the Senate to vote and, he argued, the bill was a tribute to the firemen. He thought, however, that it was not right to expect the State to pension them.

Mr. Mellwaine, of Petersburg, made a strong plea for the passage of the bill. He, too, recorded the services rendered the State and the communities in which they reside by the volunteer firemen and appealed to the Senate to give them this recognition of their labors and hardships.

Mr. Campbell, of Bedford, made his maiden speech in advocacy of the bill. He referred in eloquent terms to the work of the firemen, and their service to the State, and thought that the least the State could do would be to aid them when sick and disabled.

During Mr. Campbell's speech an unusual thing occurred. The speaker asked of his fellow-senators some question in relation to the terms of the pending bill, whereupon a citizen, who was present, stood up and asked the question and to urge the passage of the bill and with great hesitation sought to answer the question and to interpolate an argument for the bill. He was promptly called to order by the sergeant-at-arms and door-keeper, and the diversion, which created great amusement, ended here.

Mr. Wickham closed the debate on the bill. He declared that it would be just as reasonable to pension the railway brakemen and many others who engaged in hazardous occupations as to pension the firemen. He earnestly urged the Senate not to pass the bill.

The yeas and nays were called for and the vote on the passage of the bill resulted as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Bryant, Campbell, Hobbs, Lupton, Lytle, Mann, Mellwaine, Opie, Sole, Sours, Shands and Whithead—11.

Noes—Messrs. Anderson, Barksdale, Dinwiddie, Ford, Garrett, Gold, Hutchins, Massie, Moore, Shackelford, Tyler, Walker, Wallace and Wickham—14.

Twenty affirmative votes were required to pass the bill, which carries an appropriation, and seeing that it had failed of passage, Mr. Opie changed his vote from aye to no.

Mr. Lytle immediately moved to reconsider, and Mr. Opie moved to pass the motion.

Mr. Barksdale objected to the motion to reconsider, saying the bill had been on the calendar for months and had had a fair opportunity. He hoped the Senate would refuse to pass by and then refuse to reconsider.

By a yeas and nays vote, without division, the Senate refused to pass by and then refused to reconsider. That means that the bill is dead, at least for the present session.

The Senate then took up Senate bill No. 562, reported from the Finance Committee, and passed the measure. This bill is modeled on the Georgia vagrancy act.
